The New Life

Alright I scraped my first Fan Fiction because, I could not see it blasting off.

So I am starting a new project: "The Age Old Instinct"

Yeah so this is another prologue for this story.

Hope you enjoy.

nothing.

Darkness, all he saw was darkness, floating in an unconscious realm of nothingness. He wanted to get up, wanted to wake up, but he couldn't. '_Why can I not wake up' _he thought, then he remembered some thing, he almost forgot his name. '_Something Zadokâ€|. Wait _where am I__' _he tried to remember but was interrupted by a light that cut though the darkness in his mind.

Zadok slowly gained consciousness, when he fully opened his eyes he saw what remained of a house, and the sun early morning glow. Zadok got up slowly, hearing his joints pop as he stood. "Good your awake." a voice said from behind Zadok. He swiftly turned around and back handed the source of the voice while yelling "Holy mother of God!". Zadok got a quick glimpse of the object that he back handed. "Don't make me regret resurrecting you" the thing said to him. Zadok stares in awe of the little mechanical wonder, it had eight pyramid shaped parts that acted as a shell and a round core. "Might I ask what the hell you are?" he asked. "I'm a Ghost, now I'm your Ghost" the Ghost answered, he stood there staring at the little, "Well then I guess you have some explaining to do" Zadok said with sarcasm in his tone.

After a few hours, Ghost explained on what happened over a few hundred years, while trying to not confuse the human. "So you're saying that I've been dead for over two hundredâ€|.and this is what happened to the world?" he said in a stunned manner. "Not just Earth" the floating ball corrected "Mercury, Venus, Mars, and the Moon." Zadok grunted in response, "Have you contacted this Vanguard character Ghost?" a few seconds went by be for the small A.I. responded "I just notified them that we needed pick up, so it will be a few more hours before we get out of here". "Like how long are we talking about?" he asked his floating companion, another couple seconds passed by, "One hundred eighty minutes Guardian" said Ghost. "So five hours" Zadok said with his chin resting on his fist. "Three Guardian, three" Ghost corrected again. Zadok sat against the wall, "Well Ghost, wake me up if there is anything new or wrong, okay" the Ghost did something of a nod. The human began to drift into a blissful sleep.

"Yeah, have too pick up some stupid rookie?" she remarked with major attitude. The Exo decided to stay quite for this one, because there is one thing he did learn about his friend if she is pissed, leave her alone and nothing happens to you or anyone you love.

(Scene change)

"Guardian, Guardian, wake up" Ghost commanded. Zadok slowly starts to wake up, "What is it Ghost?" he groaned, Zadok sat up and looked out a nearby window, "Our ride is only a few minutes away, so I woke you up" said Ghost. The human stretched and yawned, "Ghost what time is it?" the little machine replied "11:30, Guardian" Zadok stood up and looked around for anything that was wrong, and to his pleasure, nothing changed. Then he and his Ghost heard the sound of an engine fly over there heads followed by an unearthly howl. "Fallen, they are going to be all over the Landing zone, if we move now we can beat them to the ship" Ghost advised. The human gave his Ghost a concerned look, "Where in the hell do we go, and how will I defend myself". His Ghost looked at him, "Our ride is 105 meters north, and you have a knife" Ghost said in an attitude heavy tone. He shrugged it off and started to head north.

Zad was almost there only a few meter away, once he turned the corner of a house to see a firefight going on. Two Guardians fighting for there lives against the so called Fallen. There were Fallen everywhere the two defenders would not last for much longer. "Ghost, what can I do to help those two?" Zadok asked, "There is a Fallen sniper two doors down, if that satisfies your needs" "Okay, I can already tell my new life is going to be shit" said Zadok.

(Scene change)

"Alice take the Captain to the right!" yelled Striker while firing his weapon. Alice turned and began firing onto the Captain until a round from a wire rifle went through the alien's skull. The Fallen called a retreat, already lost loads of Dregs, Shanks, Vandals, and now their commanding officer. The titan and warlock lowered their weapons, then they heard the crunch of gravel under someone's feet, they both turn to see a man in light Hunter armor walk towards them. He passed them and sat down in the ship, the duo look at each other and shrugged, then getting on the VTOL themselves and going back to the Tower.

(PoV: Zadok)

Here I was on the Dreadnaught look at the wreckage of the Awoken ships wondering '_could we done anything to spare the Awoken' _I already knew the answer to that question. I sat there for hours upon hours just staring into the abyss, then Fade broke my concentration, "Hey Zadok, I'm picking up a light of a lone Ghost" I look at him for a moment then spoke "Do you know where it is headed" "From the looks the Ghost is headed for the wreckage of the Awoken capital ketch" my Ghost looked up at me giving me a look saying_your call_. I thought for a moment "Alright let go follow it" I summoned my ship and flew after it.

Alright how did you like that.

Please note that I have no update schedule so update will be rare.

also I am looking for a Co-writer so if you are interested PM me.

Please review.
